

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO: enjoying the Arizona Aloha Festival:

Getting here (Check our Location & Map webpage for links to Light Rail and parking maps.)

- Take public transportation. Try Metro Light Rail! It's a block away and there's no stress looking for a parking space.
- If you drive, remember where you parked (Don't laugh, you'll thank us later).
- Sorry, no bikes, skateboards, or rollerblades within the event. Laid-back walking and relaxing is the way to go.

Prepping for your visit

- We strongly urge pets to stay at home due to the crowds. Except for service animals, of course. While some pets can handle things with 'aloha spirit', others cannot. Some are afraid of all those feet and loud noises. They get thirsty faster than you do. Remember, you are responsible for any consequences of their behavior, including picking up after them.
- Sorry, no beach umbrellas, pop-up tents, or other temporary structures at the Beach Park during the Festival due to safety issues. Bring an umbrella (or other item that is no taller than you when opened) Respect others around the stages and don't block their view.

Don't be this person!
They are right up front and no one can see the stage without standing.

Getting around Find an event map, vendor list for shopping and food, family activities locations, schedules and more in our free program at the Information Booth!

While you're here

 Alcohol → This is a no-alcohol event: Sneaking in alcohol will get you escorted out.

- Manners matter. You're invited to a private party. Unacceptable behavior as determined by event management may lead to being asked to leave by our friends the Tempe Police Department.

Good manners and kindness are always in fashion.

- Sodas and bottled water are a fundraiser to help keep Festival free and start at only $2.00.

- Yes, there are ATMs on site if you run out of cash for the temptations in our wonderful Island Marketplaces or delicious tasty tidbit in the Local Grinds Food Courts.

- This is Tempe Beach Park! You can suffer from dehydration and sunburn: drink lots of fluids and wear sun block!
- Hand sanitizer is always a good idea for an outdoor event.
